

Highlights

09 March, 2021

- Environmental audits were conducted along six inferred cycling routes in Hamilton.
- Cyclists' perceptions of the routes were explored through a form of photo elicitation.
- Photo elicitation is extended to generate more holistic photo-journeys of cycling routes.
- Cyclists' perceptions should be regularly explored and incorporated in route design.
- Photo-journeys is a useful participatory approach for developing cycling cities.